With 3rd Quarter almost coming to an end, 9th graders have been trying to do hybrid, by going in-person and online to still get their in-person experience. Majority of 9th graders believe that in-person helped them and motivated them drastically and has also helped their mental health.

Those who are online, many are still struggling now, but are trying to work to get it together before the quarter ends. As always, 9th graders dread for social interaction and to see their peers and teachers.
