Description of Program

The Heating, Ventilation, Air-Conditioning/Refrigeration (HVAC/R) Program is designed to prepare students for employment as heating, air conditioning, and refrigeration mechanics or air conditioning installer service professionals. This program provides comprehensive training in the design, testing, and repair of heating, ventilation, air-conditioning, and brand cooling (HVAC) systems. The curriculum integrates theoretical knowledge with hands-on practice; therefore, students develop the technical skills necessary to succeed in the HVAC/R industry. The program also prepares students to take the EPA 608 certification exam, a critical credential for working with refrigerants and advancing in the field.

Requirements for Admission

- Orientation/Testing/Counselor Interview - see back page for details

Industry Certification & County Credential Exams

Students will be prepared to take an approved county and/or nationally recognized industry certification or licensure exam in their field of study.

- HVAC Employment Ready
- EPA 608

Florida Residency for Tuition Purposes

A "Florida resident for tuition purposes" is defined as someone who has, or a dependent person whose parent, legal guardian, or spouse has, established and maintained legal residence in Florida for at least twelve consecutive months prior to the first day of the academic term. Individuals who do not meet this requirement are classified as non-Florida residents and are subject to a higher tuition rate. To be considered for in-state tuition, applicants must complete the Florida Residency Affidavit for Tuition Purposes and submit two supporting documents that verify Florida residency. For detailed information on acceptable documentation and to access the form, please refer to the admissions process or contact a program counselor or advisor for assistance.

Basic Skills

Students enrolled in programs of 450 hours or more are required to take and pass a basic skills test in order to receive a Career Technical Education certificate upon program completion. However, students enrolled in programs that are less than 450 hours or Applied Technology Diploma (ATD) programs are not required to take the basic skills test. Additionally, some students may qualify for exemptions based on specific criteria. For detailed information about testing requirements, exemptions, and test preparation resources, students should visit www.sheridantechncollege.edu/basic-skills-prep-guide, scan the QR code or contact the program counselor/advisor.
